Featured Artist 2023

Lavender ♦ Oil on Cradled Panel ♦ 24" x 24" ♦ $2,600.00 ♦ Lesley Powell

Lesley Powell finds inspiration in translating her own perception of a scene into a painting that involves the viewer, and calls forth the viewer's own responses. Her subjects range from intimate still lifes and interiors to sweeping outdoor vistas. Lesley works with a classical approach to color and composition, but her point of view is fresh and contemporary. She eliminates extraneous details, and focuses instead on the most compelling aspects of her subject. She uses simple but interesting shapes to convey these aspects. Lesley's still life paintings are sensitively observed in the quiet of her studio. Similarly, her landscapes and interiors all originate from firsthand observation and work on location. Larger studio works spring from her in person studies and sketches. Lesley lives in Charlotte, NC, but her easel accompanies her on travels far and wide! She has studied on an ongoing basis with internationally acclaimed artist Maggie Siner. Lesley is represented by Huff Harrington Fine Art in Atlanta. You can also see her work on her website, www.lesleypowellart.com.

courtney penney allen

Huntsville, Alabama

Steeplechase ♦ Mixed Media Mosaic ♦ 23" x 23" ♦ Courtney Penney Allen

Courtney Penney Allen creates mixed media mosaics featuring a wide variety of traditional and non-traditional materials and techniques merged together with meaning and purpose. Her pieces include a curated mix of old and new, the rustic beauty of antiques, the natural beauty of gemstones and minerals, Italian mosaic, seashells, salvaged wood, unique vintage collectibles, textiles, architectural pieces, mirrors, photography, acrylic and encaustic painting. What Allen loves the most about her artwork is the opportunity to combine these different techniques and materials with the rich history of mosaic, while creating something timeless and unique. Inspired by Nall Hollis and his use of mosaic in a non-traditional way, Allen worked for Nall in 1997 as an apprentice at the N.A.L.L. Art Association in Vence, France. In 2017, she was one of the three Painted Violin artists for the Huntsville Symphony Orchestra Guild's Crescen-Dough Auction. In 2019, Allen attended a master in mosaic workshop in Italy at the Orsoni Venezia 1888 foundry where she experienced the production of the smelt, the hand cutting of smalti with traditional tools, and learned various mosaic techniques on different media. Allen can be found creating at her downtown studio in the Mercury Building on Franklin Street. www.courtneypenneyallen.com

pascal bouterin

Paris, France

Les Ruelles du Souk ♦ Oil on Paper ♦ 12 ½" x 9 ½" ♦ Pascal Bouterin

Pascal Bouterin, a French artist who is also an accomplished jazz musician, paints primarily in oils, applied with a knife, and in pastels, with pen, ink and pencil. Bouterin's canvases often invoke a musical quality with people resembling notes on a page. His landscapes are reminiscent of Turner, with their dreamy ethereal quality and subtle but powerful use of color. His paintings address Old World themes in a contemporary style and his abstract interpretations of international landscapes invite the viewer into an assortment of cosmopolitan or pastoral environments. Bouterin grew up in his grandfather's house near St. Remy de Provence and his paintings are usually infused with the light and beauty of the surroundings that influenced him early on. He has an optimistic view of life, and people often comment on the calming and soothing effect of his paintings. Bouterin has made Atlanta his U.S. home and he visits fairly frequently due to having a very loyal clientele in Atlanta. He was the featured artist for the 2009 Huntsville Museum of Art Gala. www.pascalbouterin.com

anne blair brown

Nashville, Tennessee

Neighborhood Market ♦ Oil ♦ 14" x 18" ♦ Anne Blair Brown

Anne Blair Brown, the 2014 Huntsville Museum of Art Gala featured artist, was born in North Kingstown, R.I., and currently resides in Nashville, Tenn. Her work centers on intimate scenes inspired by local surroundings as well as her travel in the United States and abroad. “My artwork starts in reality and evolves through my imagination,” says Brown. “As an Impressionist, I believe in a painting process that enables me to tap into my creativity rather than trying to copy and perfect.” Her goal is to invite the viewer to connect to the painting in order to personalize the experience and use one’s imagination to complete the story. Brown is past president of the Plein Air Painters of the Southeast, a Signature member of both The Oil Painters of America and a Master member of The American Impressionist Society. She is also an active member of The Chestnut Group, a nonprofit group of artists dedicated to preserving endangered ecosystems, historic locales and aesthetically and environmentally significant places. An award-winning artist, Brown’s work can be found at art galleries across the United States including in Provincetown, Mass.; Kennebunkport, Maine; Charleston, S.C.; Bluffton, S.C.; and Leiper’s Fork, Tenn. www.anneblairbrown.com

william carrington

San Antonio, Texas

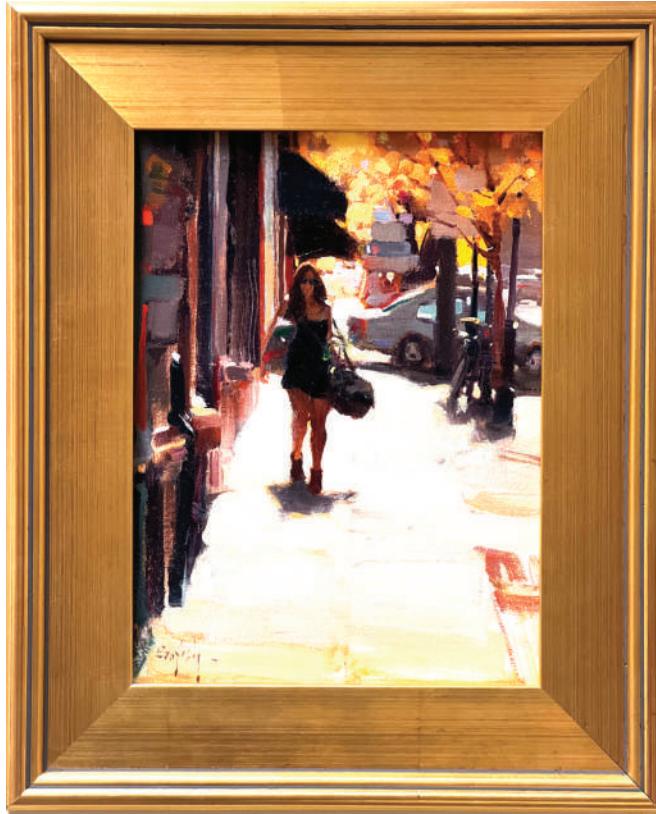

¿Que Pasa? ♦ Bronze ♦ 20" x 7 ½" ♦ William Carrington

William Carrington grew up as part of a ranching family. He spent a great deal of time hunting and fishing, resulting in an in-depth knowledge of wildlife and wildlife behavior. His work captures the gestural qualities of animals as well as finding some humor along the way. Carrington has a keen understanding of physical characteristics and muscular structure of animals, which results in his ability to depict the animal's movement from within. After receiving a bachelor of fine arts degree from Southwest Texas State University in 1989, Carrington worked for several years as a production artist for a local design studio in San Antonio. When deciding to make a career change, he returned to school and earned a master's of arts in teaching degree from Trinity University. He went on to teach elementary education for 13 years and another three years as an art teacher at a private school. After much contemplation and long conversations with his artist wife, Caroline Korbell Carrington, he decided to pursue sculpture full time. Entering his tenth year in this endeavor, Carrington currently works out of his studio at home in San Antonio, Texas. www.carringtonsculpture.com

His varied subjects are inspired in large part from travels to exotic locales throughout the world. Ranging from revealing studies to evocative street scenes to intimate interiors, English's accomplished works are painted with bravura brushwork and an emphasis on capturing dramatic lighting effects. millie gosch

College Park, Georgia

Spring in the Orchard ♦ Oil ♦ 12" x 16" ♦ Millie Gosch

Millie Gosch, a highly accomplished and collectible artist, was the 2021 Huntsville Museum of Art Gala featured artist. Her original oil paintings hang in the corporate offices of Synovus Bank, Bank of America, St Francis hospital, WellStar Health Systems and Price Waterhouse Coopers, among others. Her work also hangs in many private collections. A prestigious Signature Member of the American Impressionist Society, Gosch prefers painting from life outdoors, and when not possible, a still-life set up in the studio provides the inspiration. While some artists work from a photograph or memory, plein air artists work from direct observation to paint in nature, capturing their subject matter in real time. For Gosch, this way of working is both her passion and her calling. The studies she paints from life are then used as references to paint a much larger format in the studio. Her goal is to invite viewers into her painting to have their own experience. The beauty and quality of her work reflects Gosch's lifelong appreciation of nature and the outdoors. Growing up in a small Georgia town, she developed a deep love for nature in general and particularly the South. As an artist, her favorite subjects are Low Country and pastoral scenes. Gosch owns the City Muse Gallery in College Park, Ga., which doubles as her studio and gallery. She is also represented by Anne Neilson Fine Art, Charlotte, N.C.; Huff Harrington Fine Art, Atlanta, Ga; Reinert Fine Art Charleston, S.C.; and Two Sisters Gallery in Columbus, Ga. www.milliegosch.com

Huntsville Chick ♦ Oil on Canvas ♦ 12" x 24"

alice williams

Provence, France

Sunny Lourmarin ♦ Oil on Linen ♦ 18" x 24" ♦ Alice Williams

The Huntsville Museum of Art Gala featured artist in 2009, Alice Williams paints, laughs, gardens and lives with an ease and awakened wonder which infuse the very fibers of her canvas and inspire every stroke of her brush. Her color play and thoughtful composition, lure the viewer into a timeless, secret world they never knew they were missing. Williams studied fine arts at Columbia College, Furman University and Clemson University in South Carolina, then went on to study under Al Green, John Howard Kintsler and Albert Handel, to name a few. It was in Atlanta that she found the great Russian painters (and brothers), Constantine and Roman Chatov, who quickly became her most influential teachers. Williams spent three years under their tutelage, which led to a lucrative 12 years working as a portraiture artist, and her eventual discovery of her own, very personal creative expression. Her passion and sheer joy for creating legendary gardens matches her love of painting. Always drawing inspiration from her surroundings, Williams took notice of the enchanting gardens of England when her husband's job with IBM took them there for two and a half years in 1985. The couple's love of Provence drew them back to France where they now live in an 1823 farmhouse, which Don says is "just south of heaven's gate" and Alice refers to as "le paradis." www.alicewilliams.com

evan wilson

Sunday Best ♦ Oil on Birch Panel ♦ 14" x 11" ♦ Evan Wilson

Huntsville Museum of Art 2005 Gala featured artist Evan Wilson was born in 1953 in Tuscaloosa. He was educated at The North Carolina School of the Arts in Winston-Salem, the Maryland Institute College of Art in Baltimore and the Schuler School of Fine Arts, also in Baltimore, where he studied under the famed artist and sculptor Joseph Sheppard. The accomplished paintings of Wilson imbue everyday reality with a heightened sense of elegance and grace. His varied subjects -- engaging portraits, dazzling floral still lifes, genteel interiors and vibrant genre scenes -- transcribe the world into something rarefied, a realm in which beauty reigns supreme. Wilson's best works capture the present as they simultaneously acknowledge the past, and his art underscores the enduring power of realism in skilled and delicate hands. He has received numerous honors, six of which have been awarded by the Salmagundi Club in New York, and is featured on the December 2015 cover of Harper's magazine. Wilson presently resides in Hoosick, N.Y., with his wife and two sons. www.evanwilson.net

Recalling his teenage years, Bill says, "It's funny because in high school, I did what most teenagers in New Orleans do. I worked in a restaurant." Working his way up the ranks, Bill went on to work under renowned and decorated chefs including Emeril Lagasse and Donald Link. "As a Top 20 James Beard Award Nominee in 2016, 2017 and 2018, Bill's devotion to his team, his craft and his gift for gastronomy appears on each plate." On this special night, your guests will be welcomed to the Twickenham home of Austin and LeeLee Ray with the cocktails of New Orleans, sazeracs and French 75's, and enjoy the jazzy sound of saxophonist Tommy Friend. The casual panache of Chef Briand's cooking will thrill your guests through a multi-course dinner highlighted with fresh flavors of the Gulf Coast, which Bill miraculously presents in a modern way that still somehow feels nostalgic. As Bill says, "My philosophy is pretty simple. I try to cook everything like I'm cooking for my mom or my grandma because let's be honest, you put more into it when cooking for your family." After a luxurious dinner with wines perfectly paired by Bill's sommelier wife, Brittney, your guests are sure to feel like family. Don't miss this exclusive chance!

Event will be held on a mutually agreeable date prior to March 2024.

Gala Cocktail Party and Silent Auction

a night to remember - kathryn price

Mooresville, Alabama

A Night to Remember ♦ Oil ♦ 18" x 24" ♦ Priceless ♦ Kathryn Price

Not many people can say they are the subject of a work of art; but that will change for anyone in attendance at the 2023 Gala cocktail party!

One of Huntsville's most beloved artists, Kathryn Price, will be bringing her canvas and supplies and will set up at the celebration, and paint a truly unique scene of the party that includes the revelrous guests, the beautiful venue, and the exhilarating décor. After some zealous bidding, this unique painting will be presented to the winning bidder after the big day, giving them a gorgeous keepsake that captures the magic and atmosphere of Gala 2023.

Kathryn Price lives in historic Mooresville with her husband, Lewis. She fell in love with the painting process that includes problem-solving skills. She finds much pleasure trying to learn to see big shapes, values and composition. "To me, art is a geometry problem," says Price. "You are given a canvas and an idea, then you go through the steps to prove your creation connects with someone." She believes as painters learn and grow as artists, they constantly challenge themselves with new endeavors. "Painting is learning how to see and achieving what your eye can discern," she says. An equestrian, master gardener and flower arranger, Price was taught to paint what you know. Thus, she loves to paint horses in motion and still life set ups featuring her garden flowers. Her accolades include being selected as the 2021 featured artist for the Women's Guild of Huntsville Museum of Art's Derby fund-raiser, the 2019 featured artist for the Mooresville Bicentennial Celebration, the 2018 featured artist for the Huntsville Symphony Orchestra Painted Violin Society, the 2016 featured artist for the Huntsville Hospital Foundation Liz Hurley Ribbon Run and The Little Green Store Gallery in Huntsville. Price was also awarded the 2022 Patron Award in the Fairhope Arts and Crafts Festival, www.kathrynpricefineart.com

Marc Anderson

Mark Anderson was born and raised in the small, rural town of Wild Rose, Wis. He and his three brothers spent the majority of their youth exploring the Wisconsin countryside, which fostered a deep appreciation for the outdoors and a kinship with the natural world. Anderson developed an aptitude for drawing and painting early in his life and pursued a degree in illustration at the University of Wisconsin-Stout. While attending Stout, he began working for a handful of regional and national publications on a freelance basis. He followed this career trajectory for several years until—almost by accident—he discovered the mysterious world of plein air painting. With this newfound passion, Anderson said goodbye to the studio in favor of the outdoors of which he had grown. While his love of the landscape is evident in his work, a keen observer will see Anderson's endeavor to capture authentic light and how it brings life to each piece. In 2021, Marc was included in the "Top 10 Artists to Collect Now" special feature in Plein Air Magazine. His work has also garnered awards from prestigious shows around the country including a Gold Medal Award from the Oil Painters of America Eastern Regional Exhibition as well as Best in Show at the Richeson 75 Landscape Exhibition. Anderson is represented by LePrince Galleries. www.mandersongallery.com

Gary Bradley

According to Gary Bradley, he stumbled into the world of making art on a summer vacation when he mistakenly thought he would learn to paint, so chose watercolors thinking that would be easy! That decision turned out to be the start of a life-changing decision to reflect on our native desire for truth, beauty and goodness through the lens of beauty. From those beginnings, Bradley has gone on to become a landscape painter, teacher, mentor, gallery owner and community activist for bringing beauty to the world. His work is carried by LePrince Fine Art in Charleston, S.C., and City Gallery in Galax, Va. For six years Bradley was an owner and art director of the Waverly Artists Studio and Group in Cary, N.C., a community of 18 artists. In the past few years, he has begun to study the claw hammer banjo and formed "Lyn In The Grass," a local blue grass band in Cary. Additionally, Bradley, with several others, created "Via Affirmativa," an international movement of art makers whose passion is "to rehumanize their world through the making of art." He has been married to his wife, Julia, for 60 years and is the father of three daughters with nine grandchildren and now resides in Cary, N.C., half the year and the rest of the year in Galax, Va., when not visiting Charleston, S.C., to paint. gbradley70@gmail.com, gbradleystudios.com

Autumn's Sentinels ♦ Oil ♦ 12" x 16" ♦ $1,200.00 ♦ Millie Gosch

Millie Gosch, a highly accomplished and collectible artist, was the 2021 Huntsville Museum of Art Gala featured artist. Her original oil paintings hang in the corporate offices of Synovus Bank, Bank of America, St Francis hospital, WellStar Health Systems and Price Waterhouse Coopers, among others. Her work also hangs in many private collections. A Signature Member of the American Impressionist Society, Gosch prefers painting from life outdoors, and when not possible, a still-life set up in the studio provides the inspiration. While some artists work from a photograph or memory, plein air artists work from direct observation to paint in nature, capturing their subject matter in real time. For Gosch, this way of working is both her passion and her calling. The beauty and quality of her work reflects Gosch's lifelong appreciation of nature and the outdoors. Growing up in a small Georgia town, she developed a deep love for nature in general and particularly the South. As an artist, her favorite subjects are Low Country and pastoral scenes. Gosch owns the City Muse Gallery in College Park, Ga., which doubles as her studio and gallery. She is also represented by Anne Neilson Fine Art, Charlotte, N.C.; Huff Harrington Fine Art, Atlanta, Ga; Reinert Fine Art Charleston, S.C.; and Two Sisters Gallery in Columbus, Ga. www.milliegosch.com

Painter and gallery owner, Karen Hewitt Hagan, is living the quintessential life of an accomplished artist. The Florence, S.C., native has taught painting in Charleston, Italy, the Bahamas and France. She displays her work alongside the paintings of artists from far-away lands such as Italy, Russia and Germany. Hagan's own works are collected nationally and can be found in permanent collections of fine resorts like The Sanctuary at Kiawah Island. She is a frequent juror for Plein Air Magazine's art competitions. A breast cancer survivor, which drastically changed her perspective on life and work, Hagan says Charleston continues to be her calm, stable source of inspiration despite traveling the world and living aboard a boat. "I've had a whole lot of changes in the last decade; moving back to dry land, helping to renovate many houses, founding a gallery and marrying the love of my life (Tommy Smith)," says Hagan. "I've found that my paintings follow my heart, and what's happening with my emotions usually flows through my brush." Hagan has almost three decades of study of the masters, teaching and painting, and describes her paintings as painterly, loose and juicy. www.haganfineart.com

Golden Sunset ♦ Oil ♦ 12" x 16" ♦ $1,900.00 ♦ Ignat Ignatov

A self-described representational painter, the works of artist Ignat Ignatov float fluidly between impressionism and realism. Ignatov was born in 1978 in Veliko, Tarnovo, Bulgaria, and grew up in Sevlievo, Bulgaria. At age 13, his promising talent in drawing, painting and sculpting earned him one of only 30 available spots to attend the renowned Secondary Art School of Applied Arts in Tryavna, Bulgaria. Following his graduation in 1996, Ignatov continued his training at St. Cyril and St. Methodius University of Veliko Tarnovo. In 1997, at the age of 19, fueled by his desire to pursue the "American dream," he entered a lottery to win a Green Card. He won – and since he knew only one person in the United States, who lived in California, he moved to the Golden State. He then studied at the prestigious California Institute in North Hollywood and taught painting classes at the Los Angeles Academy of Figurative Art where he taught until 2012. In the course of establishing his artistic roots, Ignatov was influenced by Nicolai Fechin, John Singer Sargent, Anders Zorn and Joaquin Sorolla. His work includes figures, portraits, still lifes, wildlife and landscapes. An avid traveler now living in Charleston, S.C., his art is inspired by his many adventures. Carla Johannesmeyer

Low Country artist, Carla Johannesmeyer, was born in the Shenandoah Valley of Virginia where she gained a deep appreciation of the arts at an early age. Combining her love of art with a natural gift in math, she chose to pursue architecture at Virginia Tech. She enhanced her architectural education with studio studies in drawing, printmaking, photography and film. Although Johannesmeyer went on to have a successful career as an architect, environmental design leader and expert in process improvement, she continually mentally collected images and inspirations to paint. With this diverse background coupled with a love of the arts and a keen eye for composition, light and color, she has immersed herself in painting. Today, Johannesmeyer expresses sublime moments and dreams of a lifetime, telling visual stories and love of nature within the depth of each painting. A friend once commented, "You can almost hear the melody in her paintings." Johannesmeyer's oil paintings are reminiscent of post-impressionists but border on expressionism. She prefers a large brush relative to the size of the canvas, and paints with visible confident brush strokes of layering lush color to evoke light, shadow and reflections in her landscape, architectural, still life and figurative subjects. Her work is collected throughout the United States and Canada. <http://carlafineart.com>

Liz Lane is a nationally known painter and the owner of Liz Lane Gallery, a contemporary art gallery in Homewood, Ala. Her studio is located inside the gallery as well as a carefully curated collection from other regional artists. Lane, her partner, Chase, two young children and four fur babies enjoy living in Birmingham and being a part of a thriving art environment. She graduated from the University of Alabama with a degree in fashion design. Abstract principles of design that once influenced her brief time in the fashion industry now influence her art. Lane explores the energy behind people, objects and moments in her abstracts. She pushes back against traditional linear narrative, and believes meaningful stories can be found without typical order. Each piece pulls from the moment it is created in; therefore, each piece is unique in inspiration and thought. Lane uses her brush to perform a dance on canvas, expressive, powerful and unhindered by rules. A mix of emotions fill the layers of her paintings, but her ultimate goal is for the layers to have coherence and balance; a reflection of a personal balance Lane strives to find. www.lizlanegallery.com

At a glance, the subjects of Angie Renfro's paintings -- factories, birds, telephone wires -- are straightforward. But look a moment longer, and you will find profound loneliness and a tragic sense of longing radiating through these deceptively simple veneers. In capturing that beauty of the familiar yet overlooked, Renfro gives us not only moving artwork but also stark pause: If we've missed this, what else might we be missing? In 2002, Renfro received a BFA from the Academy of Art University in San Francisco and remained in the city to pursue a variety of artistic avenues. The experience she gained from working in various fields of design has had a tremendous influence on her work. Lafayette, Louisiana

Jewels of India ♦ Synthetic Polymers & Mixed Media ♦ 36" x 36" ♦ $3,100.00
Lynn Sanders

Lynn Sanders is an artist excited by beauty, which includes architecture, foliage, landscapes, seascapes and interiors. She finds palettes and shapes in her environment and propels them into her work, believing in the power of art to stimulate a person's environment and state of mind. Intuitive in nature, Sanders' painting process is chaotic, and its speed and intensity are often reflective of her current emotions. She begins her process using a tool that she designed to apply custom colors mixed with various mediums to the canvas. Working primarily in acrylics and ink, Sanders achieves chemical reactions that enhance the composition. Her tool allows her to apply the paint at a pace that reflects her impatient nature, achieving deep tones layered with transparent shapes. With focus on process over concept, Sanders' pieces invite the viewer to ponder the technique and imagery. Her satisfaction comes from knowing that her pieces speak her own unique visual language. Sanders resides in Lafayette, La., with her husband and son as well as her beloved pets. www.lynnsandersart.com

Lee Anne Parker Smith

Lee Anne Parker Smith is an impressionistic oil painter striving to learn all that she can about paint, value, color and light. For as long as she can remember, she has had a passion for creating and admiring God's beauty. "The more I look, the more I see it, and His glory is revealed to me more and more each day," Smith said. After a major milestone birthday and empty nesting on the horizon, Smith took her first oil painting class, falling in love with the soft, loose brushwork that can be achieved. A true Southerner, her favorite subjects include florals, landscapes, figures, interiors and a few abstracts. In 2012, Smith was selected as the featured artist for the Liz Hurley Breast Cancer Ribbon Run, which was especially meaningful because it coincided with the 10-year anniversary of her own personal breast cancer survival journey. Her work has been featured with the Act II local painting group at the Huntsville Botanical Garden and she has work available at Golden Griffin in Huntsville.

Karen Weih's was the featured artist for the 2019 Huntsville Museum of Art Gala. Using mostly palette knives and carefully chosen brushes, Weih's applies pigment in lush impasto layers interspersed with thin glazes that enrich colors and result in canvases that glow with mysterious light and form. The vague forms and evocative spaces in her paintings become magnets that draw audiences into the mystery of creation by way of human imagination. Her works radiate an otherworldly ambience of shimmering colors and swirling shapes, representing whatever subject matter the viewer chooses to see. Weih's galvanizes her audience's natural curiosity with compositions that border between abstraction and landscape. She alludes to the familiar without telling the story. She is also an extraordinary teacher known for guiding students toward exploring their creativity, encouraging them to experiment with tools and techniques that lead to individual style. Weih's studied with Lamar Dodd at the University of Georgia while earning a BFA degree. She was born and raised in Charleston, S.C., where she raised two sons with her husband, Chris, a restaurateur and European trained professional chef. They now live in Sarasota, Fla., where she maintains a working and teaching studio for creatives looking for mentoring or respite in the mountains. www.karenweih's.com

Daniel White is an American Figurative Expressionist painter, working primarily with oils and acrylics. His works reside with the figure and the narrative, employing a modernist palette upon almost illustrative imagery. Preferring bold outlines and compositions, the aim is for White's work to elicit an emotive response from the viewer. Exploring the realm of personal narratives and the formal principles of painting, he creates formal paintings using informal subject matter. White often uses bodies of water as the backdrop in paintings, which is a familiar scene from his childhood. "I paint to understand the world around me, to connect with art history and to connect with others," he says. White serves as the museum director of the Paul R. Jones Museum and is the gallery director of the University of Alabama Gallery in Tuscaloosa. Trained in studio art, he holds an MFA from the School for American Crafts at RIT and a BFA from the University of Montevallo. His work can be found in collections across the United States. View of Aix ♦ Oil on Canvas ♦ 20" x 24" ♦ $1,000.00 ♦ Briggs Whiteford

The Huntsville Museum of Art Gala Featured Artist for 2007, Briggs Whiteford paints from the poetry of her life and the beauty of her surroundings. Whiteford began her formal training as a fine artist at SUNY, Purchase in New York, the Art Students League of New York, the Silvermine Arts Center in Connecticut and the New York Studio School, New York City. However, her greatest teacher is nature itself. Having direct experiences in nature allows the sensation of being fully alive and embodied in the present moment to spill out onto the canvas. While she regularly travels to paint the rich and varied landscapes around the world, Whiteford also draws upon her roots in the South Carolina low country. In these paintings she connects land and sea in an intimate relationship with the low country's Geechee/Gullah people who have been living on the land for hundreds of years. After three years in New York City, deeply engaged with the New York art scene and creating a body of work that was well received, Whiteford moved to Block Island, a tiny island off the coast of Rhode Island when the pandemic exploded in New York City. Her work, inspired by the vastness of sky and ocean juxtaposed with rolling lands and stone walls, is a culmination of roots in the Deep South, her travels around the world, imagination, dreams and an intimate connection with the natural world. www.briggswhiteford.com

The Huntsville Museum of Art Gala featured artist in 2009, Alice Williams paints, laughs, gardens and lives with an ease and awakened wonder which infuse the very fibers of her canvas and inspire every stroke of her brush. Her color play and thoughtful composition, lure the viewer into a timeless, secret world they never knew they were missing. Williams studied fine arts at Columbia College, Furman University and Clemson University in South Carolina, then went on to study under Al Green, John Howard Kintsler and Albert Handel, to name a few. It was in Atlanta that she found the great Russian painters (and brothers), Constantine and Roman Chatov, who quickly became her most influential teachers. Williams spent three years under their tutelage, which led to a lucrative 12 years working as a portraiture artist, and her eventual discovery of her own, very personal creative expression. Her passion and sheer joy for creating legendary gardens matches her love of painting. Always drawing inspiration from her surroundings, Williams took notice of the enchanting gardens of England when her husband's job with IBM took them there for two and a half years in 1985. The couple's love of Provence drew them back to France where they now live in an 1823 farmhouse, which Don says is "just South of heaven's gate" and Alice refers to as "le paradis." www.alicewilliams.com

Five Pears ♦ Oil ♦ 12" x 9" ♦ $750.00 ♦ Patti Zeigler

After attending the Museum School Philadelphia and graduating from Parsons School of Design in New York, Patti Zeigler enjoyed a career in commercial interior design while privately studying oil painting with Bob Kulicke, a still life painter and frame maker in New York. The technique of her work is in the “Macchiaioli” (color patch) Italian school of painting and the inspiration for her subject matter comes from everyday objects painted many times over to find the right order in a simple realistic format. Zeigler strives for a quiet order that creates a classical illusion. The small scale, the texture of the paint and patches of color create the form. After many years of painting more formal fruits and flowers, she added a variety of fun subjects such as cookies and milk, candied apples and martinis. Zeigler’s work is represented in Renjeau Gallery in Boston, Mass.; Meghan Candler Gallery in Vero Beach, Fla.; Atelier Gallery in Charleston, S.C.; and the Huntsville Museum of Art store. She has participated in several solo and group shows including the Red Piano in Hilton Head, S.C.; The Shelburne Museum in Shelburne, Vt.; Somerhill Gallery in Chapel Hill, N.C.; and Art Center in Manchester, Vt. www.pattizeigler.com

meredith haws balasco

Tampa, Florida

Meredith Haws Balasco has been designing jewelry for over a decade. The daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Frank Haws, she was raised in Alabama and Tennessee. She later moved to Florida, where the Gulf of Mexico helped to inspire her designs as well as her love for travel. Balasco first studied jewelry design and gemstones as a hobby, but her passion soon turned into a career. She also spent years working at a fine jewelry store, Magnon Jewelers, in Tampa, Fla., where she now lives. Her jewelry designs embody semiprecious stones and often include some rare treasure found in a faraway exotic locale, such as ancient Greek and Roman coins, Byzantine bronze crosses, Russian crosses, Italian micro mosaics and cameos, and French medallions. www.meredithhawsjewelry.com

william carrington

William Carrington grew up as part of a ranching family. He spent a great deal of time hunting and fishing, resulting in an in-depth knowledge of wildlife and wildlife behavior. His work captures the gestural qualities of animals as well as finding some humor along the way. Carrington has a keen understanding of physical characteristics and muscular structure of animals, which results in his ability to depict the animal's movement from within. After receiving a bachelor of fine arts degree from Southwest Texas State University in 1989, Carrington worked for several years as a production artist for a local design studio in San Antonio. When deciding to make a career change, he returned to school and earned a master's of arts in teaching degree from Trinity University. He went on to teach elementary education for 13 years and another three years as an art teacher at a private school. After much contemplation and long conversations with his artist wife, Caroline Korbell Carrington, he decided to pursue sculpture full time. Entering his 11th year in this endeavor, Carrington currently works out of his studio at home in San Antonio, Texas. www.carringtonsculpture.com

Candle Sticks ♦ Antique Heart Pine ♦ 9 ½" x 2 ¾" ♦ $350.00 ♦ Andy Gosch

Andy Gosch has worked with wood nearly all of his life. From his early years building barns for the family horse farm, to restoring their family home with salvaged wood from old structures, to detailing new homes with recycled wood and wood components. One could speculate wood has worked its way into his DNA. He began turning on a historic lathe originally built at the former RD Cole Manufacturing Company Newnan, GA; where much of Newnan's fabulous historic architecture originated. For many years in his own shop Andy created or reproduced millwork for new and historic homes in the south metro area. The manufacturing side of his business produced mail order cabinetry, as well as case-goods for homes and businesses. Andy returned to his love of woodworking several years ago. His focus is on turnings, but he can't resist sawing specimen trees into slabs for future furniture pieces. He uses trees that have fallen on his property mainly, with occasional pieces of special interest from elsewhere. Andy chooses the shape of the turnings to fit the individual piece based on his hunch of what it will reveal.

Orlin Ivanov is a contemporary artist with unique style that enables him to frolic with new ideas and forms, which translate into his sculptures. The delicate balance between texture, color and form of different types of wood, and the combination of metal and stone make the light paint a unique visual in his art. Born and raised in Varna, Bulgaria, Ivanov showed interest in art and sculpture at an early age, always creating new pieces from different mediums. At the age of 13, he was selected as one of only 30 positions to the acclaimed School of Arts in Tryavna, Bulgaria. During his studies there, Ivanov received the foundation for his art career. In 1996 he was accepted to New Bulgarian University majoring in traditional animation. After a few semesters, he moved to California to pursue higher education and completed a bachelor's degree in 1999 at San Diego State University. Continuously working to evolve and perfect his skills, Ivanov's pieces are sold to private collections in the United States and Europe. He is represented by LePrince Fine Art in Charleston, S.C., and Naples, Fla. Instagram: orlinsart

sergio ruffato

Quadripod Aqueduct ♦ Steel Mounted on Wood ♦ 14" x 12" x 4" ♦ $500.00
Sergio Ruffato

Sculptor Sergio Ruffato is a Franco-American artist born and raised in Aix en Provence, France. In 2012 he graduated from the Savannah College of Art and Design with a BFA in sculpture. Through the study of figures in motion and dancers, Ruffato has developed his own language of movement at first by sketching on paper and then in the manipulation of metal. The idea of using steel as a drawing line came from the understanding of metal forging techniques, which enables him to work with a malleable material when the steel is red hot. The finished product is a sturdy and free-standing structure as it cools down. This process has led to a whole body of work that celebrates the transcendence of movement in a fluid and liberated style, like a ribbon floating in the wind that would have taken the shape of a body by chance. In quest of the sun rays that weave themselves into the landscapes of southern France, Sergio found his way of forging brass using a non-traditional technique to explore the different representations of light and flickering reflections on water. This workflow enables him to forge at a larger scale and display his sculptures directly in the landscapes that inspired their creation. www.sergeruffato.com, s.ruffato@gmail.com
